Towards new curricular policy-New Textbooks

As a result of unimaginable advancement in the field of knowledge, especially in science and technology and aspiration of the people all over the world, it has become imperative that changes for the better in the field of education have become indispensable. So the Government of Karnataka came up with a specific curricular policy based on the guidelines of NCF (National Curriculum Framework)2005 and KCF (Karnataka Curriculum Framework) 2007. Students of state board schools are getting a revised set of textbooks—but those for SSLC students are being rehashed taking cue from the CBSE model.

Instead of going for an all-out revision from Class 1 to 10 in 2013—as planned earlier—the state education department has advanced the implementation, in a phased manner.

The government of Karnataka has prepared the text books based on the CBSE syllabus and pattern of NCERT books.

On the revision of books, the chairman of the panel, told DNA: “We are keeping CBSE as the model, but it does not mean that the textbooks will be a photo copy of CBSE syllabus. We are just keeping CBSE as model and preparing our own text books. The new books have been introduced from 2014-15.”

Following a new order issued by the government, it has introduced the revision.

In VVS Gandhi Centenary English Primary School, we impart the National Curriculum.

Besides the curriculum and the text books of the state board –

1. We expose students to higher and advanced levels of learning through CBSE and ICSE books and Smart boards in all the classrooms. This exposes the students to ICSE, CBSE and the State curriculum.
2. The Mind Spark programme, an online Math class is yet another programme, which sharpens the analytical skill of the students.
3. The Smart projector enables one to browse contents from the Internet.
4. The K-Yan and innumerable competitive exams widen the horizon of the students and their curiosity to gather more knowledge.

All this exposure, along with a band of highly qualified teachers has broken the barrier of the tag of a State Board School. This experience given to students is comparable to any other platform of syllabi. All this, along with a rich blend of our culture, grooms the students to have rich coverage to face the challenges like any other student of CBSE or ICSE

We thus deem it our pride to speak of the VVSGC School – the training ground of ample knowledge in the most conducive atmosphere.
